ALBERTO VARGAS: KING OF THE PIN UPS

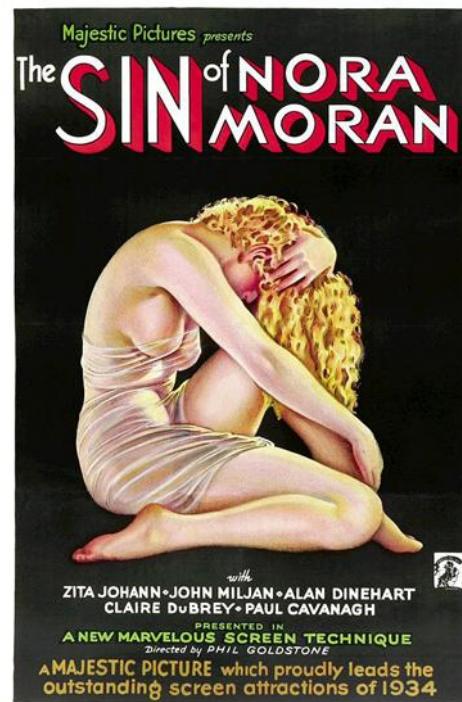

How many times have I heard the phrase “Vargas Girl”? Or the phrase, “Wow, she looks like a Vargas girl” when describing a hot pin up gal. And I’m ashamed to admit, I never bothered to find out who Vargas was. That is, until today! My natural curiosity finally took over and whenever that happens, it makes me quite proud of myself because now I’m not the same old dumbass I was yesterday lol...

Even if you've never heard his name before, I guarantee, if you're into pin-up art, hot looking models or glamorous women, you've probably seen his artwork. It's everywhere! On posters, in magazines, in movies, on album covers, on billboards.... it's probably somewhere in outer space!

So, just who was the very famous Mr. Alberto Vargas? He was born Joaquin Alberto Vargas in 1896 in Peru, the son of an already famous photographer named Max Vargas. Like father, like son? It seems that both father and son were born with an innate appreciation for visuals. But instead of becoming a photog like dad, Alberto gravitated toward painting and art. His privileged background enabled him to receive a first-rate art education in Europe where he was influenced by different forms.

Luckily for America, he decided to emigrate to the U.S. in 1916 to pursue his dreams. Like many immigrants, his first stop was Ellis Island in New York City. He was dazzled by the well-dressed, sharp looking and affluent people he encountered in the city and was inspired by the glamor – especially the ladies! He especially noticed how these American women were somehow more confident of themselves than European women. Due to his amazing talent and eye for beauty, he quickly found work doing theatrical art posters for the famed Ziegfeld Follies. He painted many of the early showgirls of that era.

One of his first movie posters epitomized the distinctive, boldly erotic style that characterized his artwork.

Clearly, Alberto Vargas was a man unafraid of the female form, healthy nudity, and a type of sensual idealizing of women that made him (and his Vargas girls!) very famous.

The Sin of Nora Moran movie poster is said to be one of the greatest movie posters ever made! Yes, his style was over the top and an unreal fantasy of what the ideal woman looks like, but hey, that's what made Vargas Vargas!

While pursuing his career, he met a sexy redhead Follies showgirl from Tennessee named Anna Mae Clift who became one of his favorite models. In fact, Vargas said that she was his eternal inspiration and his artistic muse. To him, Anna was a true “all American girl”. After dating for ten years, they finally married in 1930 and remained married until she died in 1975. It was said that she was often in the room with him while he sketched other ladies, and that he was a true gentleman. A legit love story for the ages!

Between 1940 and 1946 Vargas worked for Esquire Magazine, doing 180 paintings for them. This was during the war years, when his fabulous pin-up art was beloved by American G.I.'s and even painted on American bombers! Alberto Vargas became an American citizen and was very much an “old school” patriotic person, honorable in his life. His word was his bond.

During the Esquire years, he ran into a great deal of legal hot water and wrangling over business contracts with Esquire that left Vargas and his wife almost broke after expensive courtroom battles. Life had many dramatic twists and turns for the couple which they weathered together as a loyal pair.. The magazine was pressured to drop his overtly sexual artwork and he found himself struggling to make ends meet.

Vargas certainly wasn't a pornographer, nor did he make “dirty” artwork. His vision was always beautiful, flirtatious, fun and hot. But guess who came to his rescue in 1959? Yes, our old pal Hugh Hefner of Playboy. He recognized that Vargas was a huge talent who fit well with the Playboy image of extolling the American female with the same fun and sexy attitude. Over 16 years, he produced 152 paintings for Playboy and once again, his career and fortunes rose high.

And of course, Vargas couldn't pass up the chance to show off his artistic vision of one of the world's biggest sex symbols, Marilyn Monroe.

Displayed prominently in the Marilyn portrait are the trademark long red fingernails and ruby red lips that he loved to feature in so many of his paintings. Airbrushing was another technique that he pioneered.

His highly successful work for Playboy meant that he would be recognized, for all time, as the ultimate master of the pin-up genre, with exhibitions of his art worldwide. There really has never been anyone who even came close to knocking Vargas out of the Number One position. Many times I've been a bit depressed knowing that I will NEVER have a few hundred thousand dollars of spare change lying around in my bank account to purchase an original Vargas painting.

In 2003, Christie's auction house sold one of his paintings from the Playboy archive of 1967 for $71,600. Entitled “Trick Or Treat”, it sure would be a treat to hang this up on Halloween night! Well, I can't afford the original but I'll keep an eye out for a nice print!

It's too bad that the rise of “feminism” in 1970's America caused a certain amount of anti-Vargas sentiment from women. I have always loved his art and recognized it not as something “anti woman” but as a very lovely, freeing, fun and respectful depiction of womanhood.

VARGAS CENTENNIAL
1896-1996

I feel that way about it even more now that I know about the personal side of Vargas, who he was, as a man and a husband.

After his beloved wife Anna passed away, Alberto lost much of his interest in painting and life itself. She truly was the anchor that kept his life going. He died in 1982, age 86, in Los Angeles, CA. Perhaps the best way to end this tribute is with a quote from Mr. Vargas himself:

“What is more beautiful than a beautiful girl?”

THE Y FACTOR

Y would someone hire a gardening consultant for Minecraft?

March 11 (UPI) -- A British website that reviews garden sheds posted a job listing for an unusual $70-per-hour position: Minecraft gardening consultant.

WhatShed said the consultants employed by its Minecraft Gardening Service will lend their video gaming and garden design skills to Minecraft players seeking a little help landscaping in the virtual world of the game.

"Consultants will be able to lend their expertise for achieving gardening excellence while sticking to the player's Minecoin budget (in-game currency)," the company said.

The website said it is seeking candidates with a working knowledge of Minecraft and a "creative flair."

"While not essential, previous experience in landscape gardening is beneficial. A passion for gardening/the outdoors must also be demonstrated," the job posting states.

WhatShed said the consultants will work remotely and can set their own rates, up to $70 an hour.

Applications are being accepted at whatshed.co.uk/virtual-landscape-gardener-in-minecraft.

Y would someone sit in bean dip for 24 hours?

March 10 (UPI) -- A California stuntman spent 24 hours sitting in a pool of bean dip to promote a Los Angeles-area restaurant that has suffered losses from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Hunter Ray Barker said he climbed into the wading pool filled with bean dip outside Los Toros Mexican Restaurant in Chatsworth at 3 p.m. Monday because he wanted to support the restaurant, which he described as one of his favorites for years.

Baker's 24-hour tenure in the pool coincided with a block party at the eatery, which featured the stuntman receiving a tattoo of the restaurant's logo while sitting in the dip.

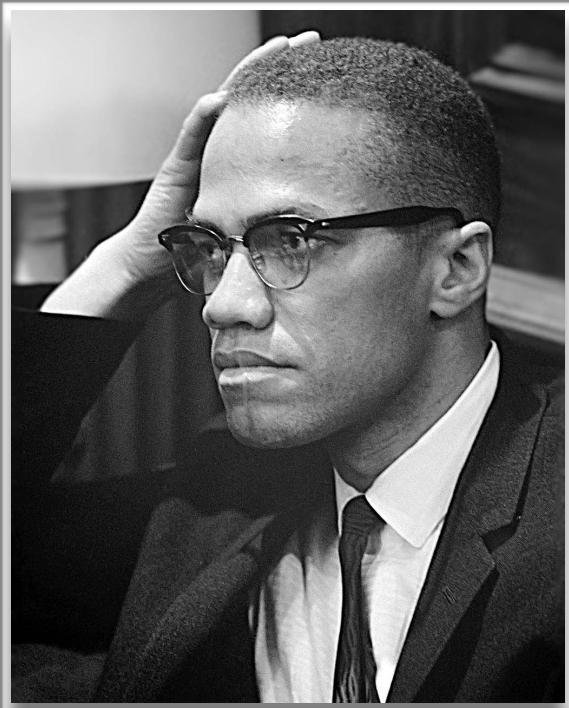

"Obviously, a stunt like this is ridiculous -- it's absurd, it's wild, but as with any stunt, I'm always in favor of something that edges on the side of absurdity if it can celebrate and at least make a couple of people laugh," Barker told Patch before climbing into the bean dip.

"If we can get more attention and turn a few more people into lifelong customers, that's what I love about it, too."

HEADLINER

MALCOLM X

His story.

Malcolm spent his adolescence living in a series of foster homes or with relatives after his father's death and his mother's hospitalization. He engaged in several illicit activities, eventually being sentenced to 10 years in prison in 1946 for larceny and breaking and entering. In prison, he joined the Nation of Islam, adopted the name Malcolm X (to symbolize his unknown African ancestral surname), and quickly became one of the organization's most influential leaders after being paroled in 1952.

Malcolm X then served as the public face of the organization for a dozen years, where he advocated for black empowerment, black supremacy, and the separation of black and white Americans, and publicly criticized the mainstream civil rights movement for its emphasis on nonviolence and racial integration.

Malcolm X also expressed pride in some of the Nation's social welfare achievements, namely its free drug rehabilitation program. Throughout his life beginning in the 1950s, Malcolm X endured surveillance from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) for the Nation's supposed links to communism.

In the 1960s, Malcolm X began to grow disillusioned with the Nation of Islam, as well as with its leader Elijah Muhammad.

He subsequently embraced Sunni Islam and the civil rights movement after completing the Hajj to Mecca, and became known as el-Hajj Malik el-Shabazz.

After a brief period of travel across Africa, he publicly renounced the Nation of Islam and founded the Islamic Muslim Mosque, Inc. (MMI) and the Pan-African Organization of Afro-American Unity (OAAU). Throughout 1964, his conflict with the Nation of Islam intensified, and he was repeatedly sent death threats.

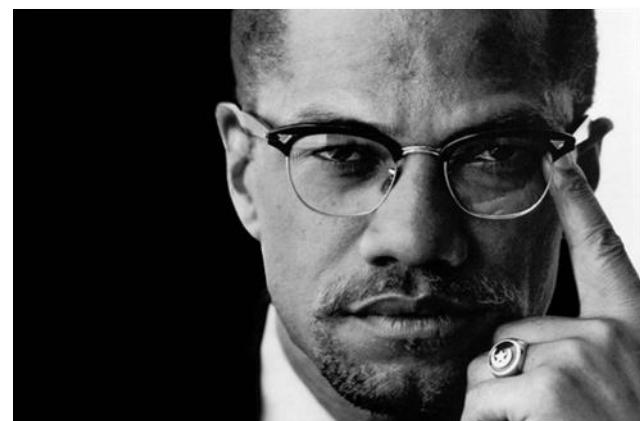

On February 21, 1965, he was assassinated in New York City. Three Nation members were charged with the murder and given indeterminate life sentences.

Speculation about the assassination and whether it was conceived or aided by leading or additional members of the Nation, or with law enforcement agencies, have persisted for decades after the shooting.

Malcolm X is also a widely celebrated figure within African-American and Muslim American communities for his pursuit of racial justice.

He was posthumously honored with Malcolm X Day, on which he is commemorated in various cities across the United States.

Hundreds of streets and schools in the U.S. have been renamed in his honor, while the Audubon Ballroom, the site of his assassination, was partly redeveloped in 2005 to accommodate the Malcolm X and Dr. Betty Shabazz Memorial and Educational Center.

THE RAW AND UNFILTERED TRUTH.

Women you must understand that it is okay to be freaky and outspoken about sex, at that.

We might have been told in the past or it might have been taught to us by our elders, that it was not lady like to be freaky or outspoken about our sexual desires.

I'm here to tell you that they were wrong!

A man, not all but most, love a freaky woman!

You should be open and feel comfortable to communicate to your significant other your wants and desires! So send your partner that dirty text, that freaky video, send those pictures of your ass and tits! Be open and see how much of a difference it could make to not only your partner but to yourself!

Let's normalize freakiness!

I'm excited to go through this journey with you and to see how we get you to open up and become happier in your relationship!

WOMEN'S TOP 10 SEXUAL FANTASIES

10. Strangers in the night

Many women relish the idea of meeting up with a mystery man and going to some no-name motel with him for a wild night of uninhibited sex. Sometimes women feel like the only people they can truly let loose with are strangers simply because they won't be judged. And who cares anyway?

They'll probably never see the beautiful stranger again. Francine divulged her perspective, "The idea of sharing a passionate night with a stranger and behaving like a sexual predator doesn't just sound inviting; it sounds delicious. And leaving after we're done without even knowing each other's names is the best part."

9. The more the merrier

Group sex was a popular one among the ladies. "The freedom of being nude in front of a bunch of people who are equally exposed, allowing different men and women to touch and penetrate your body simultaneously is incredibly erotic."

Now don't mistakenly assume that all women want to engage in group intercourse, and gather up all your buddies for your next date (unless, of course, she asks you to).

8. Who's your daddy?

If there's one thing that women are dying to do, it's dominate a man like never before. The creative ideas that flowed from this topic were quite interesting, to say the least. They included:

- spanking him
- ordering him to perform certain sexual acts
- making him beg for what he wants
- having him suck on their stiletto heels or some other phallic object

7. Lay me out on display

In today's world of confident women, I was not surprised to learn that many of them fantasize about having an audience whilst engaging in sexual acts with a partner. I guess the idea of knowing that others are getting excited by their "performance" provides them with a feeling of empowerment.

"Imagining that people are watching me while I'm taking my partner's manhood into my mouth gives me a feeling of satisfaction because it makes me feel sexier." Perhaps these women feel as though they're participating in an erotic movie... speaking abstractly, of course.

6. Sexually ravaged

Although most women agreed that they fantasize about having a master, their role in the scenario differed. Whereas some women said that they would surrender to their master's demands, others opposed the idea and said that they would resist and disobey his commands.

Vicky said, "Having him instruct me on how to lick and suck his member or at what pace to ride him will make me orgasm faster than I can say Yes, Master." On the other hand, Denise interrupted saying, "It depends. In some fantasies I obey, yet in others I fight him and refuse to do anything he says until he finally ties me to the bed and calms me with his rhythmic penetration."

Whew, is it hot in here, or is it just me???

5. I taw, I taw a putty tat

Come on, guys, I'm sure you smelled this one coming from miles away (no pun intended... seriously). Yes, virtually every woman wants or will share her body with another woman. Are you jealous because you get left out? Don't be, most of these women want their man to watch them while they work... or play, as the case may be.

"The idea of touching another soft, hairless body and softly sucking her tongue, amongst other things, seems very erotic," said Sara. Actually that does sound pretty inviting, but won't it be difficult for you guys to sit in the corner and just watch? After all, these women don't want you to participate -- okay, one of them did.

4. Leave a good tip

Keeping in mind that the women interviewed are professionals with commendable careers, some of them fantasized about being strippers, while others took things a step further and imagined being prostitutes. Obviously, the fantasy is romanticized beyond belief because the life of either is not so glamorous that women would opt to have it as a career choice.

"While I'm performing a lap dance for my customer, he hands me a $100 bill and requests that I perform the lap dance... minus his pants," Tina boldly stated. When I asked Amber about her prostitution fantasy, she said, "The gentleman would pick me up in his expensive car and I would ride him in the driver's seat in some dingy back alley. He would pay me my fee and I'd be on my way."

3. Two can chew

Most men enjoy being spoiled by two women who fawn over them simultaneously. In the same instance, women also fantasize about having two men all over their bodies. Some wanted a more gentle erotic scene, while the rare few wanted porno-like sex.

One of the most interesting statements regarding two men was having one penetrate her while the other licked her clitoris. It sounds virtually impossible (especially if the guys are not bisexual), but nevertheless intriguing.

Other good ones include having two guys perform cunnilingus simultaneously, or having one guy perform oral sex while the other sucks on her breasts. Oh, and this goes on for hours by the way.

Another woman made no secret of the fact that she wants to be nasty and do all the taboo things that most women would find degrading. She wants to be penetrated from the anus and the vagina, she wants the guys to release their load all over her, and craziest of all, she wants to be blindfolded through it all.

2. Strap me on

I'm going in By far, one of the most popular fantasies women have is being the man for one night... literally. They would like to act and dress up like a man, and I mean straight down to the penis. That's right, I'm referring to a strap-on penis.

One woman actually had the opportunity to fulfill her fantasy and took full advantage of her boyfriend's willingness. "It was absolutely incredible to be able to penetrate a man and feel the empowerment usually associated with being the aggressor."

"There's something about having a man in a vulnerable position that is an incredible turn-on." Carol admitted. The idea of knowing that we're in the position that is usually assumed by men is probably the most aphrodisiacal element of it all.

1. Ooh, my virgin ears

Although saying "rape fantasy" sounds somewhat unthinkable, that's exactly what most women call it. They want to play the innocent, naive, unknowing little girl who gets taken advantage of by the devious, predator-like man.

Forcibly pushing her against the wall and "pinning my arms above my head with one hand while the other hand has made its way under my skirt and is fondling my vagina," received nods of approval by all the women in the room. Andrea went even further expecting the man to "rip off my clothes, force open my legs, penetrate me, and concurrently as smear my lipstick all over my face with his forceful kiss." Hmm, interesting.

Guys, please keep in mind that these are fantasies; don't read this article and take it as a reason to get medieval on your women. The reason fantasies are so cherished is because the majority of them will never be realized.

So have you ever heard any of these before? Or better yet, have you ever participated in any of them? Women of the new millennium have established their position in this sexually charged environment... and I mean that exactly how it sounds.

Sexual Astrology

MARCH 2021

ARIES - You will be direct, exempt and spontaneous in expressing your emotional states and your feelings, but don't go to extremes of ardor, fits of anger, or try to impose on your loved ones. Try to be a little more respectful, amiable and affectionate in your emotional expressions, avoiding at all cost abruptness and cultivating amiability. If you soften your emotional expressions, it is much more probable that your family and loved ones will be more receptive toward what you say or suggest to them. On the other hand, if you act in a hard way, they will close up and will be put on the defensive.

TAURUS - If you are married or have children, it is a good time to guarantee your personal individual integration with your family environment, living the fact that "the personal path of evolution starts in the family". You see that by emitting noble energies, the energies returned to you are also of high and protective character. It is a good time to try and make your household a bright spot, full of warmth, conscience and protection. At least, at this time it is very clear to you that even attempting it is worth the trouble, and that success can be achieved with a little effort.

GEMINI - This astrological aspect lasts only a few days, but on occasion its effect can be felt in a palpable way. Your sensuality and your ability to love are increased now, making you more intense with greater depth and creative energy. It is a personal cycle that can serve you to intensively fuse with your mate.

CANCER - This is a good time to openly express your feelings so that you will be totally sincere with yourself and with your loved one. Sharing is being open to new realities, and opening up is necessary for a confident and respectful environment. Putting these qualities into practice will prove that boredom and monotony do not exist in real love.

LEO - Sensually, you now tend to be very passionate, spontaneous and ardent in the manifestation of your emotions, which will increase the level of energy exchange between you and your companion. This generates greater inner security in you as well as your partner and greater ability to contend with the daily circumstances.

VIRGO - If you are not involved with anyone, you now have a possibility of establishing a relationship with a person of a very sensitive, poetical and quiet character. To materialize this possibility, you also will have to be in a special receptive and serene state.

LIBRA - If you are sensitive or affected by the reaction of a relative, a friend, a loved one or even your mate, above all control your imagination, otherwise you run the risk of making a mountain out of a mole hill. Don't evade the situations or people responsible for your sensitivity, but simply reflect on the real meaning of that experience and how to respond to it.

SCORPIO - If you project this psychic energy toward someone you love and have full confidence in him/her, then that energy is strengthened, exalted and sublimated. In that way, your increased vital energy will allow you to have a clearer conscience.

SAGITTARIUS - During the time of this transit you are going to have a great need for love, intimacy and understanding. To channel these feelings properly it is necessary to live, experience and practice that "to receive one must give". In other words, don't take on a passive attitude waiting for others to approach you and kiss you, embrace you or express that they want you.

CAPRICORN - Perhaps you also want to show off your mate socially, seeking personal grandeur. Without a doubt, you are proud of your mate, but it is also advisable to apply the virtues of balance and simplicity in this sense.

AQUARIUS - Now it is vital for you, as well as your companion, to have emotional stability in your intimate relationship. You prefer serene and quiet emotional states, and deep inner concern. You don't want excessive passion at this time, as this could lead to scenes of jealousy or flaws of character that are not yet surpassed. You opt for a progressively evolving relationship, making an effort to correct every flaw.

PISCES - It is a good time to live, study and practice total integration in your affectionate relationship, where the body, the psyche and the mind collaborate toward the same end: fusion, and as a result evolution. Enjoy yourself intensely and become aware of each instant, since true love is bound to the full awareness of each act, each gesture, each feeling and each thought.
